

Organisation	Programme	Grant	Duration
2019 Funding
IPPR Scotland	Income	£150,000	June 2019- June 2021
Loughborough University's Centre for Research in Social Policy	Income	£104,000	June 2019- September 2020
Newcastle University	Income	£70,000	June 2019- December 2020
The Poverty Truth Community (Faith in Community Scotland)	Spending	£75,000	June 2019- June 2022
Resolution Foundation	Assets	£190,000	June 2019- June 2022
Centre on Household Assets and Savings Management (CHASM), University of Birmingham	Income	£77,000	November 2019- November 2020
Child Poverty Action Group (CPAG)	Spending and Income	£133,000	November 2019- November 2021
Demos	Income and Assets	£97,000	November 2019- January 2021
Fabian Society	Income	£74,000	November 2019- September 2020
Fraser of Allander Institute, University of Strathclyde	Income	£68,000	November 2019- November 2020
The High Pay Centre	Income	£62,000	November 2019- February 2021
Jubilee Debt Campaign	Spending	£180,000	November 2019- November 2022
Refuge	Income	£37,000	November 2019- November 2020

2020 Funding
Institute for Employment Studies	Income	£52,300	May-August 2020
Institute for Fiscal Studies	Income	£90,000	May-August 2020
Resolution Foundation	Income	£21,000	May-June 2020
RSA	Income	£49,000	May-October 2020
Surviving Economic Abuse	Income	£37,000	May-October 2020

Overview

This project will develop evidence, ideas and action to shape a social security system which better meets the needs of those living on low-to-middle incomes in Scotland.

This project will investigate current and future economic well-being of low-to-middle-income families comprising adults in their 20s living with their parents

The project will develop an evidence base for action to address financial hardship in rural Britain.

The project aims to ensure people living with poverty are connected with people in positions of influence to help shape decisions made about poverty-related issues.

This project is a partnership with the Resolution Foundation. Together the organisations are undertaking a major investigation into the role of wealth in 21st century Britain.

This one-year project aims to better understand decision-making experiences for people on low-to-middle incomes in the new retirement landscape. It will investigate the effectiveness of current consumer protection strategies and make recommendations for improving consumer outcomes.

CPAG will be working on ending the need for food banks through advocating for adequate emergency provision, within a social security system that prevents poverty.

This project will see Demos develop guidance from public deliberation on how to raise the tax needed to preserve public services given the UK's ageing population, and how to communicate this effectively.

This project will examine and better understand the public's views towards changes to social security through a citizen's jury, public polling and policy modelling.

A one-year project to examine changing patterns of working hours to better understand what drives these changes, how it affects poverty/inequality, and how policy might be able to respond.

This project will involve research and related policy work analysing pay gaps between high, low and middle earners at the UK's biggest companies, based on forthcoming pay-ratio disclosures.

This joint project by Jubilee Debt Campaign and the Centre for Responsible Credit will support people with lived experience of problem debt to influence and improve credit regulation and debt solutions.

This project will enable Refuge to campaign to secure changes to Universal Credit in order to reduce the prevalence of welfare-based economic abuse.

Employment and financial impacts of the coronavirus pandemic on low-income working households.
Real-time monitoring of personal finances through the coronavirus pandemic.
Assessment of Universal Credit and the coronavirus pandemic.
Greater understanding of the economic security gap for key-workers during the pandemic.
Rapid analysis of immediate economic safety needs and future resilience of victim-survivors of economic abuse in the context of coronavirus.